MALNUTRITION CHILDHOOD

IN BOGOTÁ

A multicausal condition that reveals deficits accumulated over time in nutrition, along with a lack of access to health care and basic sanitation — among other factors that cause permanent, irreversible effects on a person's cognitive and physical development.

01

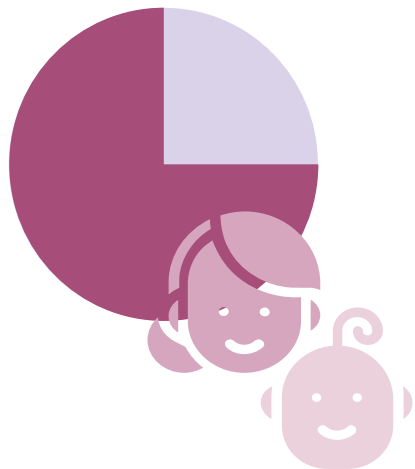

BACKGROUND

- 1 in every 100 children had acute malnutrition in 2019 — meaning a weight inadequate for their height.
- 1 in every 10 children was at risk of malnutrition.
- 6 out of every 100,000 children in the country died of hunger in 2020, and 1 in 9 suffers from malnutrition.

TARGET POPULATION

Our segment is the child population (ages 0 to 12) in the city of Bogotá.

Localities: San Rafael, Uribe Uribe, Ciudad Bolívar, Usme, Sumapaz, San Cristóbal, and Chapinero.

CAMPAIGN DESIGN

ALPINA

A well-known food company

NUTRIR

A foundation that helps children suffering from malnutrition

The strategy: every purchase of an Alpina product helps improve the nutrition of malnourished children supported by the Nutrir Foundation.

INFLUENCE GROUPS

TARGET MARKET

Men and women between 25 and 30
years old

Frequent buyers
of Alpina products

This campaign aims to raise visibility of the problem and, with it, increase the resources available to support malnourished children in Bogotá.

PLAN PROPOSAL

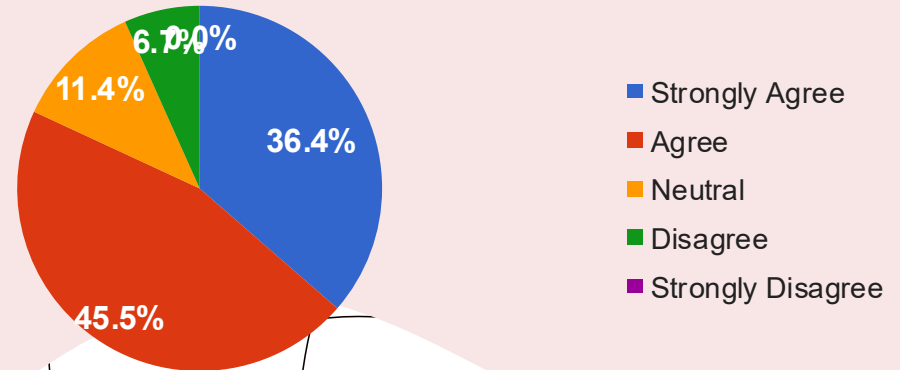

This campaign's proposal goes hand in hand with developing packaging that highlights the social cause it aims to address. Specifically, we propose new packaging featuring images of children and the Nutrir logo, as well as changing the color of the Alpina logo to create a bigger impact on consumers, who will notice the difference right away.
